* The myriad of ways to retouch photos: Adobe's Photoshop CS4 adds new features that give you even more control over the retouching process. The tool can be used to adjust the colors in a photo, change the color of different areas, create a variety of effects, and more. All of this control gives you the ability to make changes that are so subtle that you can be not even aware of the retouching you're doing. As discussed in Chapter 9, the best way to use digital retouching is to get a good retoucher to do the work for you. The retoucher should be familiar with the editing tools in the programs. The retoucher can help you edit your photos to make them more attractive so they look as if you've taken them with a professional photographer. * The many reasons to use Photoshop: Photoshop enables you to use several types of enhancements to your images that cannot be achieved in a different program. For example, you can apply a type of color correction you can only do in Photoshop, such as adjust the colors so they look like they were taken in front of a green screen. You can also add cool effects to your images that are hard to replicate in another program. For example, you can add a drawing or painted appearance to one or more parts of the photo by making a selection and applying a drawing or painting layer. Photoshop is also an editing tool that can be used to create a variety of new and cool effects, such as the one shown in Figure 10-2. FIGURE 10-2: The result of the Wienerblut (German for Bluträn) effect, a reversal of the gray scale. ## Crop Your Photos: Basic and Advanced Cropping Crop is the term photographers use to describe the editing of a photo. As the name implies, the goal of cropping a photo is to make parts of it appear the way you want them to in the final image. The benefits of cropping are two-fold: * Cropping allows you to take a photograph that would otherwise have been too big or not wide enough in its original state and create something different. Cropping is also used to add a creative effect to the photo. * Cropping is a common and very useful technique. As long as you have a photo you can easily resize and crop, there's no reason to not crop photos to fit your needs.

"I think we're going to start with what we're working on right now which is this season," he said. "We're working on getting a couple of more movies in the works and stuff like that in the future." Creator George Lucas has been hard at work on a handful of projects, ranging from the next Star Wars film to an upcoming remake of the franchise's second film, Revenge of the Sith. In an interview with The Hollywood Reporter, Lucas mentioned the possibility of a sequel to the 1968 film One of the Two stand out possibilities for a follow up film includes telling the tale of Mace Windu (Samuel L. Jackson), a Jedi Knight who dies in battle with the Sith, while another might serve as a prequel to the events of The Empire Strikes Back. Both of these stories have been explored in other media, but it would be interesting if George Lucas chose to include either one of them as a sequel to the original film, though that's a longshot at best. In any case, Lucas says he's continuing to pursue his various projects, though he isn't ruling anything out. "I can't speak to what the future holds. I can't even comment on any of that yet, because I don't know what the future holds." Lucas was unable to comment on his new projects in greater detail, perhaps due to a tight schedule, but he remained determined to get as much work done as possible before starting on the next Star Wars film. "It's going to be done under pressure because time is ticking." Bile acids are made up of a large family of compounds and their synthesis, metabolism, and effects on metabolic function have received considerable interest. One of the more important of these is the primary bile acid, cholic acid (CA) which is synthesized in the liver primarily from cholesterol. The formation of CA can be separated into two parts: one part is controlled by cytochrome P450 and is thought to be mediated by both 7α and 7β hydroxylase, and the other is controlled by the bile acid acid sulfotransferase (SULT) and cytochrome P450 and consists of isomerization of CA to chenodeoxycholic acid (CDCA), dehydroxylation of CDCA to lithocholic acid (LCA) and epimerization of LCA to deoxy

What's New In?

As we start to gear up for next year's college football bowl season and the start of the 2017 NFL season, you might be interested to know that you can still make the perfect day for football on the last Sunday in October. Coinciding with the last Sunday of the regular football season, the NFL is hosting the Hall of Fame Game, an annual contest between the Tennessee Titans and the Baltimore Ravens. The Falcons-Giants game on Sunday is shaping up to be a classic. But you don't need to watch that one to watch the Hall of Fame game. The NFL is hosting it again this year, and it is a great way to end the season with a bang. The game will be played on Sunday, October 26. The NFL releases the game information on Wednesday, so you can expect the start of the game around 7:00 pm ET, unless otherwise noted. The Hall of Fame Game always has a great crowd; the 32 fans that make the trip to Canton to see the unveiling of the Hall of Fame's busts, however, get to stay and watch the game with the rest of the Atlanta fans. The Hall of Fame game is a great opportunity for Atlanta fans to attend a game in person instead of watching it on television. If you're looking for a new one of a kind experience during the NFL season, the Hall of Fame game is a perfect chance. Tickets for this game are averaging $275. If you don't have tickets yet, there will be special spots available, so they may not sell out the way they did for the Falcons-Giants game earlier this season. This year, the Hall of Fame Game will be held at the Canton "Horseshoe," as opposed to the Falcons' home stadium. The competition between the two will certainly not be boring. A crowd of 32,000 in Canton is a big deal, so this game is bound to be a fun one. Fans will get to see some truly great plays throughout the game, so if you're not a fan of any of the teams, you might be surprised by the style of play. The Atlanta Falcons will be playing for the win, having already clinched their playoff spot. But the Ravens have already lost to the Titans in the regular season. You can bet that they don't want to lose to the Falcons the way they did in
